ALL FOUR BY-LAWS WERE APPROVED YESTERDAY

Vote on Money By-laws Not Large but Favorable.—Expenditure Aggregates $134,500.

The returns for the voting on the local improvement by-laws yesterday show an abnormally small vote. This, however, need not be considered a sign that the citizens were indifferent but rather to the feeling that the by-laws would carry anyhow, which they did.

The first one to raise $46,000 for parks, exhibition grounds, stock yards and other similar municipal purposes had the narrowest margin and it did not do badly at 208 to 127.

The second to raise $12,000 to purchase road and ditching machinery got 209 for and 120 against.

The third to raise $65,400 to install a new telephone system, seemed very necessary, and it was put through to the tune of 233-78.

$11,500 additional for the isolation hospital won in a walk, 281 of the burgesses taking kindly to the idea of some comforts during their sickness, while 51 voted against it.

T. Lavoie went to Battleford last night.

Dr. Goodwin returned to Vegreville last night after spending a few days in town.

Mr. E. T. Slemis, B.A., of the Oshawa, after spending a month in Alberta.

Mr. Gervase Phillips, pianist, left for the coast this afternoon. He will resume his classes here on September 3rd.

Miss Bessie Phillips accompanied by her brother left today for the coast. Miss Phillips will re-open her music class at the beginning of September.

GALA DAY IN ST. BONIFACE

(Special to the Bulletin.)

Winnipeg, Aug. 15.—St. Boniface is in gala attire today. Everybody is taking advantage of the lovely weather and the fact that the mayor has declared it a public holiday, to show their loyalty and their sense of honor done them by the visit of Mr. Dupleme, Archbishop of Ottawa and other distinguished clergy from abroad, to take part in the laying of the corner stone of the new and magnificent cathedral. All places of business are closed and flags are flying on all public buildings and the private dwellings of citizens are decorated. Bishop Pascal and legal judges, Dubuc, Prudergast and Prudhomme are present.

BORN

BRETT.—At Edmonton on Tuesday, Aug. 14th, to Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Brett, Fraser avenue, a daughter.

GIRL BEATEN BY SOLDIERS

Brutal Whipping Followed a Joking Reference to Russian Troops

(Special to the Bulletin.)

St. Petersburg, Aug. 15.—The brutal treatment of Milie Smirnov, a girl, who was whipped by order of Commander of the Chevalier Guards, has caused great indignation. The Smirnov girl said the soldiers acted as if they had captured Port Arthur and when the crowd took it up the commander ordered the men to charge the crowd. The girl was captured and taken before Col. Stenbachfermer, who ordered her whipped. Twenty-seven lashes were administered on the back, which was severely lacerated.

The Czar reviewed the troops at Krasnoye-Selo without incident. There were no signs of dissatisfaction. The Empress and the Queen of Greece rode among the troops with the emperor.

Warsaw, Aug. 16.—Twenty murders have been reported at Wloclawek. The chief of police and a police captain were killed.

TORONTO BUILDINGS TIED UP

(Special to the Bulletin.)

Toronto, Aug. 16.—President Dinwiddie, in addressing the carpenters and electricians, claimed that in the present strike they had been grossly misrepresented. Members of other trades went on strike this morning in sympathy with the carpenters. Most of these were electrical workers engaged at the university, wiring various rooms, in preparation for the British medical convention which opens next week. The contractor went to the labor temple and begged the men to return but they refused. This cessation of work will hamper the convention. Not a man is at work on the new $30,000 press building which was being rushed for the exhibition opening.

SEIZED THE HEADS.

The provincial chief game guardian in company with guardian Cooper, seized at Taxidermat Teggendorfer's two mountain goat heads, supposed to be the property of W. H. Connor, of Lac Ste. Anne. The heads were brought before Police Magistrate Cowan, and in compliance with Section 26 of the game ordinance, an information laid. Mr. Teggendorfer was told notice to appear before the said justice at the city police court on Tuesday, the 22nd, at 7 p.m. to answer the charge of having in his possession contrary to the provisions of the ordinance, Section 26 governing.

BOY KILLED AT LAC STE. ANNE

Fell From a Roof and Dislocated His Neck.

Lewis Cuthbert Parson, a young boy of twelve years, and son of Mr. Henry Parsons of Lac Ste. Anne fell from the roof of a house in course of erection and was instantly killed. The little fellow was playing around the house and climbed up to help the workman, Mr. Wm. Stevenson, when he slipped off striking his chin and dislocating his neck. Mr. Stevenson hastened to him, but when he picked up he was dead.

Mr. Parsons, who has been working in the city all summer was not aware of the sad accident until Mrs. Parsons arrived in the city yesterday with the body of their son. The accident occurred on Tuesday afternoon. The funeral takes place today at 2 p.m.

PONOKA WON CHALLENGE CUP

(Special to the Bulletin.)

Ponoka, Aug. 14.—The Ponoka gun club sent a team to Red Deer on Monday, in order to wrest the Brewery challenge cup from the shooting sports of that town. Red Deer put forth a strong team to repulse the attack of the northern foe, but were beaten by a score of nine points.

The shooters were as follows: Red Deer, Plaxton, 13 birds; Drake, 10; Stephenson, 10; Cottingham, 9; Wilkins, 10. Total 52.

Ponoka, Pagan, 13; Lee, 12; Anderson, 10; Fleming, 12; Segerstrom, 14; total 61. Fifteen birds shot at.

Red Deer is to try no time in making an attempt to win back the cup and have challenged a match for the third of September, when a big shooting tournament is to be held at Ponoka.

GAS AND OIL RESOURCES

Government Engineer Returns From Inspecting the Gas Well at Pelican Rapids gas and oil resources. — (Don't gases, Mr. T. C. Denis, who is attached to the mines section of the geological survey, has just returned to Edmonton from a short trip to Pelican Rapids on the Athabasca river, some 120 miles below Athabasca Landing. Mr. Denis has been investigating some of the mineral resources of Alberta on behalf of the department and the object of his visit to Pelican Rapids was to report on the present state of the bore hole sunk at that place some eight years ago. The well has since then been belching forth large quantities of natural gas which when ignited produces a flame which burns to a height of some fifteen feet. When it was first struck the escaping gas produced a roar which could be heard from a distance of over a mile, but within the last three years the pressure has diminished considerably and the noise is not now audible beyond 400 yards. If this supply of gas were located near Edmonton it would constitute a very valuable source of natural fuel, as it is struck within 800 feet from the surface, but as it is situated at such a great distance from any industrial center and far from easy means of communication it cannot, for a long time at least, be put to any use.

Further north, in the vicinity of Fort McMurray, boring operations for oil are actively being proceeded with. Two drilling rigs, equipped to reach a depth of 3,000 feet are now in this field, and the results will be watched with great interest by everyone. Geologists think there is no doubt that large quantities of oil exist in the formations underlying that part of Alberta, and it is hoped that the operators now at work will see their efforts to strike it in remunerative quantities crowned with success.

BUILDING CARS AT GREAT RATE

Twenty-five Freight Cars Per Day Being Turned Out For the C. P. R.

(Special to the Bulletin.)

Montreal, Aug. 16.—An order for 3,000 freight cars has been placed at the Angus shops by the C.P.R. and is being rushed to completion to meet the demands of the crop. The cars are being turned out at the rate of 25 a day. Though the work has been going on for three weeks, it will be continued at the same rate until the demand for cars becomes less imperative. Besides this all cars from this section are being rushed to the wheat belt.

ESCAPED FROM PENITENTIARY

Owen Williams Gets Away but is Caught in Bush

Owen Williams escaped from penitentiary today. He was 5 feet 2½ inches high; fair haired; had sharp eyes and roman nose; weight 145 lbs.; sentenced to 5 years at Red Deer.

Just as we go to press Warden McCauley informed us that Williams was captured in the woods near the penitentiary.

CUTTING IS IN FULL SWING

The Crop of the Great West Will Be Cut by the End of Next Week

(Special to the Bulletin.)

Winnipeg, Aug. 16.—Today's crop report by the C.P.R. shows universally satisfactory conditions. Cutting is in progress in all sections and there has been hardly any report of damage, few sections that have been affected by the elements report that heat and hail are responsible for a slight damage to crops. During the present week and throughout next week nearly all cutting will be done. From fifteen to twenty-five per cent. of the crop has already been cut.

ASSAULTER CAPTURED.

(Special to the Bulletin.)

Winnipeg, Aug. 16.—After chasing Charles Stokes from Lombard to Albert street, last night, and firing four shots, constable Gallagher captured and jailed him. The officer was attracted by cries of two little girls whom Stokes was attempting to assault.

LUMBER PRICES WILL GO UP

Edmonton Yards Will Follow the Lead of the B. C. Mill Men.

rise in the price of lumber yesterday were very reticent. The British Columbia Association advanced the price $1 per M a short time ago and it was only reasonable to suppose that the local dealers should follow suit. It was learned, however, on good authority that the price will advance on the 1st of September and that the advance will average about $1 per M, though it was impossible to ascertain what grades would be most affected. Most of the better grades of home-sawn lumber will be advanced at the same time, the dealers figuring that they can sell all they can save, all the time at the higher price. Large quantities of lumber are moving at this season of the year and all the local yards are very busy.

MEN SCARCE IN MINNESOTA

(Special to the Bulletin.)

Crookston, Aug. 16.—In the light of the labor situation the prospect of a bumper crop is a menace to itself. It is the story of lack of men intensified because of heavy acreage in sight and tremendous railroad development that is using the service of thousands that would otherwise help in the harvest. Agents are scouring the States as far south as hands can be secured. Men are being shipped north, transportation free. While this is going on neither railways or labor agencies are halting at anything to get men to work on railroad extensions. Wages are high. Although it is to the interests of the railroads to see the harvest cut, their first thought is to get the new lines finished in time to carry the new crop.

CALGARY NEGOTIATING FOR ENTRANCE OF THE C. N. R.

NOW WATCH THE RATES

Inspector Finds Winnipeg's Water Pressure Very Poor

(Special to the Bulletin.)

Winnipeg, Aug. 16.—That Winnipeg is at present entirely at the mercy of any fire of over an hour's duration in a closely built district was the opinion expressed by leading local insurance men who watched Robert Howe, inspector for the Dominion Fire Underwriters' test the water supply from the hydrants on Main street yesterday. When the firemen held eight nozzles attached to hose from various hydrants in the district; eight very feeble streams resulted. The height reached above the nozzles was so small that they were greeted with a hearty shout of laughter from the crowd. With ten streams and ten pounds pressure the brigade would be in a comparatively good position to fight fires. Mr. Howe first put a pressure gauge on the hydrant at the corner of York and Main streets. The pressure registered five pounds and gradually crept up to 20 pounds. Next he entered the Hudson's Bay store. He found five pounds on the ground floor and no pressure whatever above. Everything points to an unfavorable report from Howe and a jump in the insurance rates in the near future.

Free Terminal Site Would Expedite Matters.—Road Would Enter by Line From Regina.

Calgary, Aug. 15.—At the appointed time yesterday morning the representatives of the city council and the Calgary board of trade waited upon Wm. Mackenzie, president of the Canadian Northern Railway, and talked over the proposed line. The members of the council and the members of the board of trade referred to the amount of business that Calgary was doing and what would be doing if the C.N.R. would come. "I needn't be told about that," said Mr. Mackenzie. "I know well enough about the business which you have here and I know we would get our share of it." When the members of the deputation asked Mr. Mackenzie what might be done by the city to facilitate the coming of the road, Mr. Mackenzie replied that a free site might help some. It was difficult to get sites in this western country and it might be difficult to get sites in Calgary. He said nothing about a subsidy, and when asked about a subsidy later he intimated that the company did not expect one, but a site was desirable because Calgary would be a terminal and that there would be shops and such things here. The question of time was the most unsatisfactory part of the discussion. Upon this subject, Mr. Mackenzie would say but little. He did say, however, that it was quite possible for the C. N. R. to come to Calgary at the end of next year. But whether or not it would come at that time, well, that was Regina.

THREE STRAIGHT FOR THE CAPS

Calgary Men Badly Worsted in Their Last Invasion.

The Caps made it 3 straights from the Cow Herders. In a light hitting game on the local diamond last night, it was a pitcher's battle from start to finish, both men showing fine form. Howard for Edmonton struck out 12 men and kept the visitor's six hits well scattered, while Crist for Calgary struck out eleven, and only allowed three singles to be made off his delivery. Rank fielding on the part of his supporters alone caused his downfall. The Caps played errorless ball in the field and were snappy on bases, but did not show much strength at the bat. The Calgarians gave a marvellous exhibition of fielding and, while they are credited with six hits, still they could not connect safely when hits meant runs. Some of Garrison's decisions were rather raw and he gave Calgary their only run in the ninth, when he called McGinnis safe at second on an attempted double steal.

Ford, the first man up, took one of Howard's shots in the legs and trotted to first. Moore easily sacrificed him to second. Rochon flew out to centre, but Donovan struck out and ended the agony. It was one-two-three for Edmonton, in the first three innings, but in the fourth Adams singled. Sullivan, the next man up, laid down a hot grounder to the pitcher, and on Donovan's error both men advanced a base. Hodge flew out to right and Adams scored on the throw. Sullivan brought in another by practically having stolen home when White bunted. Doan fanned. There was nothing doing again until the seventh, when White drew a pass and stole second, but neither Donovan nor Deaton could do the necessary and he died there. In the eighth, after Tazell had fanned, Howard got first on Moore's error. Hanson's kick out, but Adams advanced him to third with a nice clean single. Sullivan drove a long fly to right, which got away from McGinnis, and Howard scored. Adams scored on a passed ball, but Hodge struck out, leaving Sullivan on third base.

The visitors could not get a man on bases again until the fourth, when Rochon drew a pass, but was nipped at second on Donovan's grounder. Reeves singled, but the test Westorburg could do was a strike-out. In the fifth McGinnis singled, but Kinncard and Crist both fanned and he died at second. In the sixth they jostled fanfancous again when Rochon and Donovan singled in succession, but Reeves popped up a fly to third retiring the side. Kinncard singled in the seventh, but Crist struck out. They went out in order in the eighth, but in the ninth with two out Westorburg singled, McGinnis advanced him to third, making first himself. Then with a man on first and one on third, McGinnis stole second and Hodge, instead of cutting off the man at third, threw to second. He caught him man all right, but the umpire did not see it, and in the meantime Westorburg had crossed the plate with the only bases prevented. Kinncard fanned, and it was all over but the chasing. ## THE CIVIC HEALTH DEPARTMENT

The proposal, now before the city council, to raise the salary of the medical health officer raises the question as to whether the time has not come for changing the status of this official and for instituting somewhat radical changes in the method of administering the health department of the city. Hitherto the medical health officer has been a practicing physician whose public services have been rewarded by a somewhat nominal salary. The salary now proposed may still be considered nominal and is certainly far short of what a physician would require to devote his whole time to the work, but it is a sufficient advance toward such salary to warrant the question of whether the city would not gain by going the whole distance and appointing an official to devote his whole time to the administration of the health department.

That the city has a responsibility for safeguarding the health of its citizens does not need to be argued, for this is already admitted in the power to quarantine and to enforce sanitary conditions now possessed by the city and in the city's liability for failure to exercise such power. Neither should it be necessary in this age of the world to say that this responsibility is best discharged by prevention rather than by attempt to recover the consequences of neglect. Such prevention can only be secured when it is the business of some individual to secure it, and will be safeguarded in the discharge of such duties against personal loss. In other words the health of the citizens will be best protected when the responsibility for protecting it and the authority to do so is placed in the hands of a competent individual whose discharge of public duty is not compromised or threatened by fear of private loss.

To say this is by no means and in no degree a reflection on the record of the gentleman who for many years has held the position of medical health officer of this city. The service rendered by that official has been probably as good as could have been secured under the present arrangement and a criticism of the system should not be construed as an attack on the individual. Under this arrangement the salary paid the officer is at best no more than compensation for the time occupied in the discharge of his public duties. It includes neither reimbursement for the enforced neglect of private practice nor compensation for the direct loss of his practice which any physician must suffer who faithfully discharges the duty of a health officer for a city. Least of all does it contain any financial harm for the feelings of the officer when an irate household expresses his candid sentiments regarding the hardships of the quarantine regulations. A maximum of abuse and a minimum of compensation are the common rewards of the physician who endeavors to harmonize the duties of the city health officer and the interests of a private practitioner.

To engage a medical man to forego the emoluments of private practice and devote his time exclusively to the service of the public would mean an additional salary on the city pay roll, and a salary by no means small, for the occupant of the position should be a man neither of small calibre nor small attainments. His medical qualifications should be of the highest and with these he must possess the genius to organize, to direct, to administer, and the courage to enforce the law, regardless of fear or favor. Such man could only be secured for a salary remunerative to his worth. But the real question is not the cost but whether there would be a return justifying the cost. Economy is always desirable and the unnecessary multiplication of officials to be avoided. But with this reason a salary more or less will neither make nor break the city and Edmonton can afford to maintain a public health officer if there promises to be good return for the money. There is a saving which is extravagance of the worst kind and in no way is it more clearly exemplified than by neglect of safeguarding the public health until an epidemic ravages a city or the costs of a suit for damages are required from the ratepayers.

Edmonton is now a city of more than 11,000 people. Its population has doubled twice within the last five years and promises to double again during the same period of time. The additions to our population are coming from all corners of the earth and are necessarily exposed in the districts whence they come or en route, to disease of many kinds. The population is at present scattered over a wide area but the tendency during the next few years will be to concentrate in districts rather than to extend the settlement area. Again the supply of residences is far below the demand and in consequence large numbers of new comers are living in tents while building is proceeding with phenomenal rapidity in every corner of the city. Only by tireless vigilance, and when necessary by the most rigid enforcement of the law can sanitary conditions be maintained under these circumstances or an epidemic exterminated in its beginning. To combat contagious diseases the city is now undertaking an extensive program. The erection of the hospital is an important step, but its real service will depend on the manner of its conduct and the promptness with which contagious cases are sent thither. However energetic the sanitary officials may be and however willing the medical men to report cases requiring quarantine, their efforts would be better applied and more efficiently directed if the sanitary system—the quarantine regulations and the conduct of the hospital—were concentrated under the direction of one efficient and fearless official.

He would be in a position to both prevent unsanitary conditions and to wipe out epidemics and could be held responsible for both.

DIED
Mrs. James B. Graham, died this morning at 2 o'clock at the General Hospital.
Mrs. Graham was well known in this city, having resided here for thirteen years. After living here for some time the Graham family moved to the Surgeon district. They took up their residence in Edmonton again two years ago. Mr. Graham came to Edmonton fourteen years ago, and was joined by his wife the following year. They came from Lindsay, Ont. The husband and a family of three sons and a daughter are left to mourn her loss.
The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon from the family residence, 724, Fifth street, west. The service will be conducted by Rev. Dr. McQueen at 3 p.m.

PENNSYLVANIA EDITORS ON WESTERN CANADA

During the stay of the Pennsylvania state editors in Winnipeg on Tuesday last the following opinions on western Canada were obtained by a Free Press representative:

W. Carson—first vice president of the association, and president of the trip, in the absence of the president—Beaver Falls, Penn., representative in the state legislature. "Our present outing is much the most varied and extensive ever made by members of our association during the 36 years of its history. We have received during our visit to the west courtesies which no more extensive party would have received and which no amount of money could purchase. We have seen something to write about, but more than that, we have seen much to think about. Of our entire party, not one had seen the west before, and every person on the train had expressed pleasure and gratification at all they had seen. As newspaper men we were particularly interested in newspapers and everywhere we were surprised to see the class of newspaper turned out. You are in this respect unquestionably in advance of any similar portion of our country. Your country offers have a great advantage over us in being permitted to buy in Canada a type machine which owners of papers will allow to be sold at any price in the United States. If we could use this machine in our country the editors at present here would give an order for 100 of them.

We have arranged to hold a business meeting on the way home on Thursday. At this meeting we will make formal expressions of our thanks for courtesies received. At the present time I wish to thank the Free Press for copies delivered to our respective cars. This courtesy was fully appreciated by all the members of our large party."

A CHANGED CONCEPTION.
R. P. Hagood, of the Bradford Evening Star, said: "This is the 36th annual trip of our association, and it may be said at once that the present journey totally eclipses any previously made by our association. What surprises us most is the vastness of the country lying to the west of this city. Most of us were aware that there was strip of country in Canada north of the Great Lakes, but beyond this all was vague and uncertain. As a result of our present journey, some of this vagueness is removed and we appreciate in some measure what the Great Dominion is. We have been much struck with the difficulty of discerning any difference between our Pennsylvania people and your people in Winnipeg. If it were not for our badges I venture to say that no one in Manitoba could pick out a single one of our party on your streets. We are evidently one people after all. Our trip must result in a great deepening of the interest of Pennsylvania people in western Canada, and may also result in bringing many hundreds of our farmers, their sons and daughters to your prairies. We have been, during our stay, the guests of the government of Canada, and we consider that no honor could be greater than this."

CANADA'S VASTNESS.
John R. Farr, former speaker of the House of Representatives, said: "Our journey was both delightful and of the highest educational value to us. Many of our friends in Pennsylvania have visited in Canada, in Montreal and Toronto, and come back to Pennsylvania thinking that they have seen the Dominion. As we have learned, the traveler who has only seen Montreal and Toronto has scarcely got into the vestibule of Canada. The west is the country, as has been often remarked, of great distances, and also obviously the country of wonderful opportunities. I have been deeply interested in the various high and public schools of your country. During my term in the legislature of Pennsylvania I introduced two measures which eventually became law in that state. The first of these had to do with compulsory education, and the second with free school books and supplies. The bill providing for compulsory education was twice vetoed by the governor, and was finally passed in the legislature a third time and signed, after a contest lasting through six years. The superintendent of public instruction in the city of Pittsburgh told me that the law providing free books and supplies for school children had brought 3,000 additional school children to the schools of Pittsburgh in one year. All the arguments against free text books have been found to be invalid on trial. Books are well cared for by the pupils, and have now three lives instead of one. The law has in some cases trebled the number of scholars in our high schools, and within a few months, I was told by one of our high school principals, that in his town they could not have a high school were it not for the free text book law."

William H. Campbell, Dallas Post: "I wish you would say for me that we have found the Canadian people as hospitable and courteous as any that we ever met. I also wish you would say that western Canada has been a complete revelation to us. We had the idea that the Dominion in its western portion was a wild and rough country, in which many species of wild animals roamed. By the time we reached Edmonton, our ideas on the subject were pretty thoroughly reconstructed. We have six million people in Pennsylvania, and we could well spare a million to western Canada. You have a country forty times as large as our state, and I am led to believe that someone must have purposely kept us in the dark regarding the value of it. I have crossed the Rockies several times by various American railway lines, and may say that the Canadian route is equal in its scenic features to anything on the continent."

THE COUNTRY'S FUTURE.
P. A. Philbin, representative in the state legislature, Archbald, Citizian: "The public buildings of western Canada made a special appeal to me. Your citizens have erected a class of public buildings far in advance of the buildings in similar towns in Pennsylvania. They are a credit to the spirit of your country. The trip through the west was a great delight to us, and the climate and fertility of the soil both appealed very strongly. The possibilities of agricultural development in your country are far beyond any power of mine to conceive, and the population of the country is bound eventually to be very large."

E. A. Hempstead, Meadville Journal: "You have in Canada the last 'West' in the world. When your country is full there will be no other west to which our people can go. You have the last chance. The American surplus population does not look favorably on South America, and will not go to South Africa or Australia. The only country to which they will readily go is to your great West, where many of them will no doubt find homes. Our farmers in Pennsylvania can sell their lands at from $30 to $200 per acre. If they can get land in Canada at a reasonable price, the advantage of making the change is obvious. You have everything in the western provinces but population, and you have nothing to fear in this matter, except the people will some day begin to come in far to fast. You are going ahead as rapidly as is good for you, and more people than you can accommodate will be seeking entrance to your country in future years."

U. S. OWES US.
O. J. Sturgis, Uniontown, Pa., Daily News-Standard: "We undoubtedly owe many hundred thousands of good people to Canada. A million, perhaps more, Canadians came to the United States during the past twenty years. Now they and their children are on the way back, and some Americans with them. During the past few weeks I have despatched five news letters to my paper, descriptive of western Canada, and have my work well up to date. I am glad to say that I have been able to speak unreservedly of the prospects of the settler in the Canadian west. Our town down in Pennsylvania boasts among other things of the most prosperous bank with one exception, in the United States. Its capital is $100,000 and its surplus $1,000,000. It pays a semi-annual dividend of 11 per cent., and adds a large slice regularly to its surplus. We are in the town country, making coke for all parts of the United States and are a highly prosperous community. Mr. T. S. Gorley, business manager of our paper, was taken ill with appendicitis in Vancouver and is still there. He could not be moved, but is reported to be doing as well as could be hoped for."

John H. Troesch, sheriff of Westmoreland county, editor, Jeannette Dispatch: "We have nothing but good words to say of Canada and the Canadians. We have seen a wonderful country and have met a most hospitable and kindly people. We met many former Americans, some from Pennsylvania, in the west, and they assured us that they had found all the conditions of life perfectly satisfactory in Canada under Canadian laws and institutions."

THE PROPER IMMIGRATION.
J. H. Zerby, Pottsville Republican: "If I could remove to Canada at the present time, I would go to Grand View and locate and live in that town. I cannot conceive of anything much more attractive to a young man who wishes to grow up with the country. I think that at the present time you are seeking the best kind of settlers for your vacant farm lands. There can be no better agriculturists for your country than the enterprising and hard-working children of the men and women who have been pioneers in some other country. We, who are in the west on the present trip, are all supposed to be up in the geography of America, at least, and boast ourselves to be men of some education. On our present trip, however, we have gone through a country, the existence of which it is difficult to form a true conception. Down in our country, we are in the heart of the hard coal region, the great hard coal country of the world. Our mines produce between fifty and sixty million tons per annum, all of the finest quality. All our interests are of course based directly on these products."

W. C. Derschuck, the Hazelton Plain Dealer: "We saw last night in the city of Brandon some of the finest driving horses we have ever seen in our history, and would be much pleased to have the opportunity to take a pair of them home with us. That city proved to be full of interest to us all and was visited with very great pleasure. There is no reason why there should not be many thousands of farms similar in many respects to that beautiful spot, and there is certainly a place for hundreds of thousands of our American agriculturists in your great country. I attribute the progress and growth of western Canada largely to the fact that you have so much young blood in it. You have very few old fogies and much of your business is done by young men. We have a large surplus population in Pennsylvania, and we will be pleased to advise many of them to come to Manitoba and the West. We have 300,000 people in Luzerne county alone, and I trust you may hear from some of them in the future in your great western country."

THE FINEST CITY.
C. L. Cleaver, editor and D. W. Kehler, business manager, the Mount Carmel Daily News: "The finest town in the west in our judgment is your neighboring city of Brandon. Brandon is the cleanest, brightest city in the West, with beautiful residences, and progressive business men. Its location is most fortunate, and it has most excellent water and natural drainage. One of the things we like about your western towns is the prevalence of the municipal ownership idea, so giving many utilities to the public at a low price. We were told in Regina that the rate of taxation there for all purposes was 15 mills. In our town it is 32 mills. You also enforce your laws in a way with which we are not familiar. Your hotels close their bars at certain hours and we found that they really were closed. Two main things appealed to us on our journey. One was the fact that your government takes care of the common people and the other was the vast possibilities before your citizens. Your banks seem to us of a class of the largest value. In one of your prairie towns we saw a substantial bank, a branch of a bank having a capital of several million dollars and a surplus of several millions more. Fancy the strength and stability of a bank of this kind as compared with a local bank with limited resources. In this bank we also saw printed in plain figures the quotations of the price of wheat on that day. We could not conceive of anything better conceived to protect the farmer than this daily posting of wheat values by a reliable concern. By the time we had reached Edmonton, we had come to the conclusion that Canada could not only look after itself but that in time it will be able to feed the whole of Europe. The only thing we regret is the existence of the imaginary line which separates this country from the United States. In the years to come the Dominion is going to be a close second to the States in production and also possibly in population. We do not see how we can possibly repay the people of Canada for the courtesies which have been extended to us. There is one class of people whom we would like to see come west and settle on your arable land, namely the European farmers, who are coming to Pennsylvania and working in our mines. These people know nothing about mining, and they have nothing to learn about farming. I see that you are paying very high wages on your farms during harvest, and I fancy that many of these people should be attracted to Canada. When we were in Regina, Governor Forget, asked us if we had seen Old Rattleford. When we replied that we had, he told us he had lived there for many years. This country appealed strongly to us, and if we were young, we would have got off the train, and remained at some point in it."

E. M. Magee, assistant city editor of the Sun, Pittsburgh, and J. L. Kaufman, political writer of the Sun, Pittsburgh: "Our pleasure in visiting the great Canadian west is only surpassed by our still greater pleasure in meeting and coming to know some of the people of your country. We met Governor Bulger during the week on the occasion of his visit to Regina and learned much from his regarding the development, growth and future prospects of Saskatchewan, in which many years of his life appear to have been spent. We did not happen to see Governor Forget in Regina, but had the pleasure to see Premier Walter Scott, first premier of the new province, who apparently enjoys the full confidence of his constituents. Superintendent of Immigration C. W. Speers made the entire trip with us through the west and was known among the pressmen as the Pathfinder to Canada, owing to his great knowledge of western affairs. Speaker McNeill, of the Saskatchewan legislature, was also with us throughout the latter part of the trip, and supplied all kinds of information regarding the country between Winnipeg and the mountains which he has been traversing, as we understand, for the past third of a century."

The very large concessions made by Canada to its western railways was a matter of great surprise to us, although it was explained that for good reasons it was necessary that these concessions should be made. We should fancy, however, that the time might have arrived when railways would be built in Western Canada without aid from the Government."

CATTLE THRIVE ON A THOUSAND HILLS

(Special Correspondence of the Toronto Globe.)

Grassy Lake, Alta., July 18.—"Grub-plie!" sang out the cook of the cowboy outfit at 5 o'clock in the afternoon of a broiling hot day, and into the big rock-tent we went to help ourselves straight from the cooking pots, then sat outside on the grass in the scanty shade of the canvas to eat the pork and beans and drink from a tin mug the steaming tea that constituted the fare for the day, and for most days in a cowboy's life. We were on a cattle ranch lying between the Belly and the Bow Rivers, newly leased land, bare of every sign of man, save for a tiny shack in the distance and the two newly erected cowboy tents here at hand. The Belly River, which runs in the gulch below, preserves some of the characteristics that had marked it at Lethbridge. Its channel still changes at the will of the spirit of the river, and wanders whimsically over the broad bed and the streams a high and low, broad and narrow, with the spaces, but it is always swift, clear and cool. Though high above the river, we are still in the valley. Yonder is the steep bank of two or three hundred feet that leads you to the rolling uplands. There is hardly a scrap of vegetation in sight but grass. Usually the river's bank in the plains shelters a few meagre-looking trees or at the very least a little shrub. Here there is across the river one solitary linden tree, the only one as far as the eye can see, and whose presence served to emphasize the nakedness of the broad plains. Even the grass is short and scant. It grows in little bunches known as "buffalo grass" but it is a species of the famous bunch grass of the prairies; excellent, I hear for fattening cattle, and no wonder, since for we know not how many centuries it was the food of the monarch of the plains, from whom it is named. Reminders of the presence of the buffalo here are still found. The whitened head bones, with the splendid horns or sometimes the horns alone occasionally confront one, but they have been mostly sold off for fertilizer in the case of the bones and for curios in the case of the horns; a few years ago a brisk trade was done in disposing of buffalo bones in this way. It is barely twenty years since the last buffalo was seen here.

CATTLE ON A THOUSAND HILLS.
Of course there are cattle here. Wherever you go in the small kingdom of two hundred thousand acres of which this ranch consists you see them quietly browsing in groups or in the heat of the day troading in the shallow water. At evening, as steadily and regularly as a line of soldiers, down they march to drink their fill from the running stream. Sometimes, I know not whom, here picture in verse, of which I did not, until coming here, realize the full beauty and force, the cattle across of the plains and the long association between man and the past. Here are the lines which I found the other day in a western paper:—

"When the grave twilight moves toward the west
And the horizons of the plain are blurred
I watch on gradual slope and foothill crest
The dark line of the herd;

And something primal through my being thrills,
For that line met the night when life began
And cattle gathered from a thousand hills
Have kept the trail with man

Till their calm eyes his greater glances hold,
The wonder look, the dumb reproach and pain
Have followed him since Adam's herds
Darkened the Asian plain."

THE COWBOYS

This is the more sentimental side of cattle ranching. The practical aspect of it takes shape in the cowboy camp that has suddenly come into life here. The outfit came along one afternoon. The foreman at once set up the situation, and in almost less time than it takes to tell it, the two large tents were erected and a headquarters established. The first duty of the men will be to round up "strays" and drive them outside the limits of the new ranch. While the new lands were unexcited or some portion of them remained so, cattle fed at large here from many ranches and farms. Owners of missing cattle will in all probability secure them at the round-up, but that is their own affair. The new cattle will come along as soon as the ground is clear. They are coming from the famous Cootnam ranch, near Macleod, and, chiefly, otherwise, from a neighboring ranch. The Cootnam ranch itself, by the way, has been sold, apart from the cattle, to the Mormon Church, which proposes to place settlers upon the land having it irrigated. The property is 60,000 acres in extent, and as the Mormons farm usually on a small scale, a new town will doubtless be established there. Rumor, in fact, has already assigned to it the name of Taylor after the former apostle of the Church at Utah, who spends much of his time here in Alberta. The ranch was established by Senator Cuthbert about 1882 and was one of the first large ranches in the west. Branding is of course, an all-important feature of cattle ranching, and an elementary portion of the cowboy's training. Mr. Wilson, chief of the brand-recording office for Alberta and Saskatchewan at Medicine Hat, told me the total number of brands would run to about thirty thousand; this, of course, for the two provinces only, and including a like ten, twenty or thirty thousand animals of the great cattle kings and the ten or a dozen of the humble homesteaders. The operation itself is not a pleasant one to witness, and the reader may be spared the details. The victim is usually a calf, there being seldom occasion to brand or re-brand a full-grown beast.

THE OWEN WISTER COWBOY

Those who look to a cowboy camp for the picturesque sensationalism that adorns Mr. Owen Wister's novels may be disappointed; but the author's realistic criticism by announcing in "The Virginian" that the scenes he described were passing away. These are the summer months here, and come from the same region of which he wrote. Most of the men in camp here are Americans, largely from Texas; the foreman from Colorado. They are mostly young men, but there is at least one grey-haired cowboy here. As to dress, it is entirely as you please. No special cowboy costume is affected, not even the cowboy hat that the young men of Calgary wear so jauntily. Twined or corded or any other material of the conventional pattern does for clothes, but there is a slight variation from the customary mode in the loose buckskin "chaps" worn over the trousers when riding. There in the morning is the usual hour of rising for the cowboy, and after an early meal at the grub-pile he starts on his day's work. The evening meal is at five, as we have seen, and he has not often any serious duties later on. Each cowboy has a string of six or seven horses. He used them hard on occasions and may frequently exhaust them; or four during a big round-up and needs the remaining animals fresh for the morning. There are a few calves or a hundred horses with the present outfit, and there is sufficient occasion for roping, corraling and sudden swift riding to show how dexterous these men are in the management of their horses, and how active and agile in the saddle. Between whiles in the camp it was

CATTLE THRIVES ON A THOUSAND HILLS

to be noted that the men read good magazines when they were not chatting or resting. Their language when they have trouble with a broncho or a steer, is said to be terrific in its force and originality, but they seldom allow strangers to hear their best efforts. There is no whiskey allowed on a well-conducted ranch, under penalty of dismissal. The foreman of the present outfit aped a couple of bottles the other day and managed to spill them quietly without raising the question. This alone makes the world of difference in the morale of the camp. When the cowboy visits town at long intervals there is sometimes another story to tell.

GRASSY LAKE

The ranch I visited was about nine miles north of Grassy Lake, Alta. But where is Grassy Lake? asks the reader. Well it is not a place of metropolitan dimensions and may very well pass unnoticed by the ordinary traveler. It lies half way between Lethbridge and Medicine Hat on the Crow's Nest Pass line of the C.P.R. In daylight there is here a population of about twenty, but when our party arrived there at 3 in the morning the population was wrapped in sleep. On the whole Grassy Lake would seem to be very like its neighbor, Whoopup, judging from remarks I heard addressed by a Lethbridge gentleman to a Hamilton lady at the Lethbridge hotel the other day. "I am sure you would like Whoopup," he remarked gaily. "If you come from Hamilton." But the point was lost because the Hamilton lady took it as a compliment to herself. Both Grassy Lake and Whoopup have as yet risen only to the dignity of flag stations. The baggage men put our possessions down on the broad prairie beside the track and the train went on into the darkness. The buildings of the place consisted of the station agent's house and a tiny general store, and the latter we eventually concluded to be the local substitute for a King Edward Hotel. With some difficulty we aroused the proprietor and secured accommodation for the night. Our baggage had to remain on the prairie. In the morning we learned from our landlord that Grassy Lake, however, has aspirations. A town site has been staked and its promoters are hopeful that a little town will spring up here. A few settlers have moved into the surrounding country during the last two or three years, and the little store is doing a fair business. It was the actual and prospective development, in fact, that induced the storekeeper lately to add four tiny cubicles to his establishment and offer accommodation to the travelling public. Perhaps Grassy Lake's future depends less on the development than on the chance of coal being worked in the neighborhood, for here, as at a hundred other points in Alberta there are indications of the vast fuel beds that seem to underlie the whole province. One hour before we reached Grassy Lake the previous night we had passed, thirty miles from Lethbridge, the new town of Taber, which at 2 in the morning had given up an impression of peculiar liveliness. Some of these coal deposits are being worked at Taber and the town owes its existence to the mines started there a year or so ago. This example of Taber has fired the ambitions of Grassy Lake, which hopes also to become a mining centre. Taber by the way, was first settled by the Mormons of southern Alberta, but with the growth of the coal industry the "Gentiles" have outnumbered them.

FARMER OR RANCHER

As to farming it is a comparatively new industry hereabout, as indeed throughout the whole section from Lethbridge to Medicine Hat, and for many miles north of the line. It is the familiar story of the rancher versus the farmer, and as yet the rancher is still largely in possession though a good many settlers have gone in during the last year or two. The soil is light and dry and belongs to that order of which the rancher conscientiously predicts a quick wearing out. Settlers here are too new to throw very clear light on the question, but several satisfactory crops were raised in the neighborhood last year, and the wheat growing this year promises to do well. There is, however, no great quantity of it. It would be an excellent idea for the Dominion or Provincial Government to make a careful investigation and report on this region and if the result does not wholly justify settlement to officially discourage it until regions concerning which there is no manner of doubt have been settled up.

The twelve government creameries in Alberta last year turned out for market 925,000 pounds of butter, which averages 21.5 cents, says the New York Herald. The product was sold in B. C., Yukon, China, and Japan. The government operates and turns over the entire net profits of these creameries to the 1200 farmers supplying the milk. Five private creameries have also been established in Alberta, and these exported in 1935, 6,000 pounds of butter.

Cardinal Star: There is more humor to the square inch in the make-up of C. W. Fisher, the man from Banff, than any member of the Government. He is a jolly good sort, a clever speaker, apt in conversation and interesting in his public discussions. The "capital" here which one buzzed in his political bonnet, have left the money in Edmonton. "I must be content to be the 'best resort on the continent.'"

COSTIGAN TALKS OF THE WEST

Winnipeg Free Press: The Hon. John Costigan, who came to Winnipeg to attend the opening of the exhibition and who has since been travelling in the west, spent the past two days in the city on his way east. He left Winnipeg yesterday on the C.P.R. for Kenora and will make the trip from that town to Rainy River by steamer, going east to Fort William over the C.N.R. He expressed much satisfaction and surprise at the rapid growth of western towns and the prospect for further general development. He also remarked upon the large number of people at each station no matter how small the town. In all cases the appearance of the residents was most prosperous. In the course of a brief interview the honorable gentleman said he did not go farther west than Edmonton. In 1893 I made the trip from that city to the Peace River country and was very much interested in it at the time. We went north from Edmonton to Athabasca Landing, ascended the Athabasca river to the Lesser Slave Lake and so on to the Peace river country. I took with me an American machine to make tests for gold along the Peace river. It is well known that there is a very large quantity of gold in the sand of the Peace river, but up to the present time no device has ever been invented which would successfully separate the gold from the sand. The miners who were at that time at work on the river calculated that they were not getting more than twenty per cent of the gold from the sand which they had treated. The Peace river is I am persuaded as rich as the Klondike, but the gold is too fine to be secured by any known device.

"In the valley of the Smoky River I saw many small fields of wheat, oats and barley which were successfully grown. I remember rightly some grain grown by an old Hudson's Bay factor on the Smoky River secured the diploma at the World's fair. This gentleman had a mill of his own, grinding his own flour, and also for his neighbors who were engaged in ranching, etc. in that country.

North of the Peace River is a very fine ranching country, with plenty of hay, fine clear streams, good water and considerable timber. My idea of the district was that the area south of the Peace River might be used for farming purposes and the country north of it for ranching. All this area will be tapped by the new railway lines and a thorough test will soon be made of the value of the country for all purposes.

"I have always thought well of the west and always had the impression that it would develop into an important agricultural country. No one could have foreseen the important growth of the Peace River, but all our western towns and villages are such as we could have hoped to see them become."
